GOVERNOR BUDD WILL NOT INTERFERE.

Governor Budd has rendered a decision in the Durrant case. He says he has examined the evidence and questioned the witnesses and can find no good reason for interfering with the decision of the Courts and not letting the law take its course. He finds that the evidence justifies the verdict, and he cannot do otherwise than follow the Supreme Court and permit the judgment to stand.

Durrant has been sentenced to be executed at San Quentin on the 11th instant for the murder of Blanche Lamont in Emanuel Baptist Church, San Francisco, in April, 1895. The murder was one of the most atrocious recorded in the annals of crime. He was superintendent of the Church Sunday School, and took advantage of his position to allure the girl into the church for the purpose of taking her life. He was a student in a medical college and used his knowledge of surgery to conceal his crime. Though he endeavored to fasten the guilt upon others, the proof that he was the murderer was so positive that the jury found him guilty on the first ballot, and the court sentenced him to be executed upon the verdict. He appealed to the Supreme Court and that Court affirmed the judgment without a dissenting voice.

Nor was the murder of Miss Lamont the only crime charged against Durrant. He was also indicted for the murder of Minnie Williams, another of his Sunday School pupils. The evidence against him in the Williams case is said to be as positive and damning as it was in the Lamont case, though he was not tried for the murder of Miss Williams.

Durrant was ably defended. The best lawyers in San Francisco used every means known to the legal profession to save him from the halter. Every device was resorted to to delay the ends of justice. When the Supreme Court refused to interfere the Governor was appealed to, and the affidavits of men, who swore that they were the murderers, were presented to him to create a doubt in his mind, though it was shown that one of the men who testified that he murdered the Lamont girl, was not in the United States when she was murdered.

It is said that another effort will be made to save Durrant from the gallows by appealing to the Supreme Court of the United States. It is probable that this will be as unavailing as the other efforts of his counsel, as the United States Court will not belike to interpose, unless there is some constitutional question involved, and that has not been shown to be the case. If there was any doubt whatever of Durrant's guilt he would be given a new trial ere this, and if any new evidence had been discovered, which tended to show that he was not the murderer of Blanche Lamont, a stay of execution would doubtless be granted in his case.

The murder of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams has been called the crime of the century, and all things considered it is without a parallel and nothing to compare with it in atrocity has occurred in California.

A MISNOMER.

The Republican party believes in the single gold standard; it is absolutely opposed to the free coinage of silver, and yet there are men who believe in the free coinage of silver, who make silver the all-absorbing issue and call themselves "Silver-Republicans," yet the two words negative each other. The word silver is to imply that the owner of the title "Silver-Republican" is in favor of silver, and the word Republican implies that the holder of the same title is opposed to the free coinage of silver.

We may, with just as much propriety say a white colored man or a white black horse or a round straight hoop. Let this misnomer, this humbug of a name, "Silver-Republican," be abandoned. Let every man who favors the free coinage of silver stand up for Bryan and the Chicago platform. Let those who are for the single gold standard stand by McKinley and Republicanism. Let the people fall in line. The sooner the issue is clearly drawn between the free coinage of silver and gold and the demonization of silver, the sooner will the matter be settled. But in heavens name do not bamboozle the people with the misnomer, the cheat, "Silver-Republican."—Ogden Standard.

The Amosonda Standard says that the trusts have shaped the Dingley bill. That was to have been expected. The trusts won at the last election. They have control of the Executive the Senate and the House. Why then should anyone deny the trusts the right to frame legislation? To the victors belongs the spoils. That includes the right to legislate, out of which comes more spoils than out of office.

HON. JERRY SIMPSON of Kansas, who has irritated Speaker Reed somewhat, says that Congressman Lewis of Washington, who has been annoying the man from Maine very much, dresses like a Republican goldbug, talks like a Bryan Democrat and votes like a middle-of-the-road Populist.

Mr. Reed's end of Congress, which is doing nothing, and meets only twice a week, did not observe Memorial Day, though the Senate did.

YELLOW JACK APPEARS.

CONGRESS WITNESSES ANOTHER ATTACK ON REED.

A Big Amalgam Robbery at Nevada City.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—John L. McLean, who succeeded the late Senator Earle, was sworn in at the opening of the morning session to-day. This establishes the personnel of the Senate as it will remain for some time, viz: Republicans, 43; Democrats, 34; Populists, 7; Silver Republicans, 5; vacancy, 1 (Oregon); total, 90.

The Tariff bill was taken up immediately after the disposal of routine business.

The House to-day witnessed a sharp attack on the Speaker by Simpson and Richardson because of the non-appointment of committees. On motion of Dingley the House upheld the Speaker's refusal to recognize a resolution of Lewis of Washington relative to Cuba as privileged.

A special order was then presented for the immediate consideration of a resolution providing for the transportation of supplies to India. The order was adopted.

Yellow Fever at New York.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Angus McClellan, a second cabin passenger on the Allencia, which reached this port to-day from Colon, died of yellow fever yesterday at sea. He was a civil engineer from Picton, N. S., and contracted the disease at Panama. Herbert Gill, a waiter on the Allencia, was also taken ill with yellow fever. On May 21st he was transferred to the Swinburne Island Hospital. Another second cabin passenger will be detained at Hoffman Island for five days.

Robbers Loot a Quartz Mill at Nevada City.

NEVADA CITY, June 1.—At midnight two masked men bound Peter Seith, who was in charge of the mill at the Providence mine, and breaking open the safe, stole a large quantity of amalgam. The loss is estimated from five to twenty thousand dollars.

HIRAM DART'S REFUSAL.

Why He Did Not Marry the Cheering Widow Breece.

When old Hiram Dart was in his seventy-fifth year, the faithful old wife who had been his companion for a full half century, sickened and lay on her deathbed, and the neighbors, in their sympathy and desire to see the old man married, began to urge him to take a second wife. He refused, however, and his wife, before long, died. He was then seventy-six years of age, and had been a widower for six weeks in her grave.

He made no secret of the fact that he was "in the market," and several suitors came forward, but he would not budge. He attributed this fact to the general lack of taste and judgment in the "wimmin folk" of the present day.

"They're a funny lot anyhow," said old Hiram, "but it comes of this fool new wimmin idea."

One day an old woman drove by a neighbor's house and "bigger up" in his Sunday best and with a blue satin necktie, forming a marked contrast to the big red pompadour in his hair. He turned for a moment at his neighbor's gate and finally consented that he was "going a-speakin'."

The object of this amatory visitation was the Widow Breece, who lived "over Helsen way," and with whom old Hiram was wholly unacquainted. Some one had, in a spirit of either malice or mischief, made old Hiram believe that the Widow Breece, a robust, well-to-do woman of about 60, would be inclined to look with favor on Hiram's suit.

"An' it won't be no harm done to go an see her anyway," said Hiram, as he drove away.

It was nearly dark when Hiram reappeared, far less buoyant than when he went away. His neighbor was on the lookout, and, hailing the old man, he said:

"Well, Uncle Hiram, did the Widow Breece refuse you?"

"Not much she didn't," retorted Hiram spiritily. "I refused her."

"You refused her? Why, what do you mean, Uncle Hiram?"

"Mean jess what I say. I refused the old—old—cattywampus!"

"Why, Uncle Hiram, is that a respectful way to speak about a lady?"

"A lady? Humph, great lady old Jane Breece. You call a woman a lady? Why, she was a feller with a barometer in his 'an ole fool' an sich like person."

"You're a funny one, that?"

"I jest said I guess she'd got wind that I was over here. I'd hardly interferred with her. I began to state my business when she saw me with a broomstick in her hand, and she gave me a jessed I never heard. I jess waited till she got through, an' then I up an' told her I was a blank that I wouldn't have her if she was the last woman on top of the earth. Yes, sir, I refused her jest that p'int blank."—Detroit Free Press.

The Truth Well Told.

The statements of the citizens of Reno and neighboring towns printed in the JOURNAL and Gazette concerning the liniment Trib during the past year constitute a most remarkable showing.

They come from old and young, from athletes and from cripples, from the weak and the strong, from horsemen and wheelmen. They are from truthful, experienced and well-known men and women, whose opinions could not be purchased. The Trib Company has, ready for the inspection of everybody, the original written testimony of these people. They are such people as Mrs. L. M. Eickbush, Officer R. O. Leeper, A. C. Helmold, E. D. Laohman, Manuel Simas, T. E. De La Matyr, Dr. Darling and numerous others in this city.

Equally well known and responsible people in Virginia City and other towns testify to the value of Trib. Among them are at least two leading physicians who, through a peculiar prejudice against advertising, do not wish their names printed, who prescribe Trib in certain cases in which a liniment mild in action yet strong in effect is required.

The evidence shows that Trib is a good liniment, that it fulfills all its promises, and that it does all that is claimed for it, and much more. It is obtaining a strong hold on the favor of the people of Reno.

SEA ABOVE THE CLOUDS.

Extraordinary Superstition Once Prevailing in England.

The curious superstition that there is an ocean above the clouds is illustrated by the following strange story by an old English writer: "One Sunday the people of a certain village were coming out of church on a thick, cloudy day, when they saw the anchor of a ship hooked to one of the tombstones—the cable, which was tightly stretched, hanging down from the air. The people were astonished, and while they were consulting about it suddenly they saw the rope move as though some one labored to pull up the anchor. The anchor, however, still held fast by the stone, and a great noise was heard in the air, like the shouting of sailors. Presently a sailor was seen sliding down the cable for the purpose of unfastening the anchor. When he had just loosened it, the villagers seized hold of him, and while in their hands he quickly died, just as though he had been drowned.

"About an hour after the sailors above, leaving no more of their comrades, cut the cable and sailed away. In memory of this extraordinary event the people of the village made the hinges of the church doors out of the iron of the anchor." It is further stated that these hinges "are still to be seen there," a bit of evidence much like Munchausen's rope wherewith he once climbed to the moon. If you doubted the story, you were confronted with the rope.

There is another queer tale about this aerial ocean. "A merchant of Bristol," it is said, "set sail with his cargo for Ireland. Some time after, while his family were at supper, a knife suddenly fell in through a window on the table. When the merchant returned and saw the knife, he declared it to be his own and said that on such a day, at such an hour, while sailing in an unknown part of the sea, he dropped the knife overboard, and the day and the hour were found to be exactly the time when it fell through the window." All of which was once haphazardly believed by many and regarded as incontrovertible proof of the existence of a sea above the sky. One is at a loss to conjecture how that "unknown part of the sea" coincided with the rest of it. A physical geography showing this would be no small curiosity.—Boston Post.

SILKWORMS OF LEBANON.

How They are Cultivated in the Mountains of Tripoli.

Harry Fenn, the artist, has written a paper, entitled "Silk and Cedars," for St. Nicholas, describing his visit to the famous mountains of Lebanon. Concerning the silk industry, which plays such an important part in the lives of the natives, Mr. Fenn says: As the time approaches for the silkworm to hatch out the egg the family move out of the house and camp under the trees, giving up the entire establishment to the worms, after having placed the eggs on shelves made of a redlike bamboo. At first the young worms are fed on finely chopped leaves, but as they grow larger the leaves are cut up into small pieces, and the worms are fed on these. They are then fed on a mixture of leaf and pupa, and in the end of the season the worms are ready to spin. When they are ready to spin, small branches are placed on the shelves, and as the cocoons are formed upon them the dead twigs seem to bear golden fruit. When the worms get through that part of the business, the neighbors are called in—something as to an old fashioned New England apple paring bee. They call it "gata" in Arabic—that is "picking," and soon you see piles of pale green, pure white and golden yellow cocoons heaped upon the floor. Later they may be spun into hanks, but usually the cocoons are sent down the mountains to Tripoli or Damascus, and after their 30 or 40 days of toil they, too, often have to sell the produce for next to nothing, as the Chinese are always ready to undersell them.

Another curious use Mr. Silkworm is put to is to soak him in vinegar for some hours, after which he is drawn out into so called "outgut" to make snells or leaders for fishhooks.

AT THE UNIVERSITY.

A Number of Interesting and Instructive Theses Presented.

The University Gymnasium in which so many brilliant exercises have been presented in the course of the last few days, was yesterday the scene of another pleasing and instructive program—the reading of theses by graduates of the Nevada State Normal School.

The program opened with an essay, "The Art of Questioning," by Miss Nettie Benson. After a short discussion of the value in the school room of skillful questioning. Miss Benson outlined the principal characteristics of a well put question and set forth some of the dangers of unskilled questioning. In style, her paper was easy and conversational, and her manner was all that could be desired.

The second number on the program was an essay by Miss Maud Mary Blake, entitled "Incentives to Literary Culture." Miss Blake first emphasized the great value of intellectual culture. She then set forth with much originality and maturity of thought the noble personal development produced by association in books with character of ideal beauty and nobility.

Next in order came an essay by Miss Margaret Vivian Donahue, entitled "Geography Development." This paper outlined the various means now employed in the best schools to help the youthful mind to a knowledge of the rudiments of this important science. The logical and lively way in which geography is now taught and will be taught in the future is in such strong contrast to the dry old geography of our youth we wish time would roll backward and let us go to school again.

"Methods of Analysis in Mental Arithmetic" by Miss Rose Gooding was the next essay read. The paper consisted of a logical presentation of the best and newest methods in mental arithmetic. Her entire paper was concise and forcible, awakening considerable discussion.

Next on the program came an essay entitled "The Emotional factor in Education" by Miss Grace Tavis Herriek. She traced first the points of weakness in the educational system of the ancient Greeks and in some phases of modern education. She then showed the great value of the partially neglected emotional factor in education. Following this idea out she discussed the principal means of cultivating the higher nature. Her paper was couched in beautiful and imaginative language and was broad and practical in outlook.

The next thesis, a paper by Miss Alice Thompson entitled "A Lesson in Dissection," awakened much interest. After a short discussion of the value of dissection in teaching physiology she gave a practical illustration of the subject by dissecting an unfortunate tabby cat and exhibiting its interior makemon to the spectators.

We trust no one in the audience was affected as was a small boy in the Normal Training School who there saw a cat dissected some months ago. The small boy's sister a few days later heard a terrible screeching coming from the back kitchen. She stepped quietly into the room and was horrified on beholding her guileless brother brandishing a dull and rusty butcher knife over the family cat which was lying flat on her back, securely tied to the ironing board. The small boy was crying piteously. Between his sobs the sister heard him say, "never mind kitty, it will soon be over."

Miss Thompson's paper ended the exercises for the morning. At 2 o'clock the reading was resumed. First came an essay on "Fractions" by Miss Martha Olara Fanning. This consisted of a clear and practical demonstration on the blackboard of the best and latest methods of teaching fractions.

Miss Trembath next read an essay on "Authority and Obedience," written by Miss Emma Wallace. This essay setting forth in a strong light the usefulness of obedience to proper authority afforded much valuable food for thought, valuable alike to teachers and parents.

Correlation in Mathematics in the Eighth Grade" by Miss Theresa Peters followed. This essay showed the points of likeness and difference between algebra and arithmetic. It was illustrated throughout with precise and well chosen blackboard examples. It showed in a strong way the usefulness of connecting all mathematical knowledge into a united whole.

The program of the day was concluded by an essay on "Co-education" by Miss Anna Kathryn Donahue. After tracing the development of the co-educational idea in the leading American schools and colleges she showed the advantages accruing from the system. In style the paper was vigorous and pointed. The speaker's manner easy and dignified.

All the essays showed careful planning and much literary skill. Much credit is due Mrs. Emory and her able corps of assistants for the good showing made by the graduates of the Nevada State Normal School.

INDIAN TROUBLES ENDED

All Quiet in Southern Lincoln at Present.

Governor Sadler has received a dispatch from Sheriff H. E. Freudenthal of Lincoln that the Indian troubles are ended and all is quiet at present along the Colorado. The Indians were on the warpath for awhile and a general uprising of the Platos along the Colorado in Nevada and Arizona was feared. Several white men, at least eight or ten in all, were killed and a reign of terror prevailed. Two of the worst Indians were killed, Ahvete and his brother, and that ended the trouble.

Eldorado Canyon and Los Vegas Valley, where the Indian uprising was threatened, are very remote from railroad and telegraphic communication. The bad Indians waylaid and killed teamsters and prospectors whom they found alone in the hills. The Pioche Record says a number of men from the southern part of the county, who were working in the mines about Pioche and DeLamar, quit work almost in a body and left for their homes to protect their families.

Sheriff Freudenthal says he will write full particulars to the Governor.

U. S. Revenue Collector May as an Artist.

Chas. May, U. S. Internal Revenue Collector has developed a remarkable talent for landscape photography. Although only claiming to be an amateur in the art, his work is superb and would be creditable to a professional artist. Many of his views of the streets of Reno, public buildings and residences cannot be beaten, and the river front view from just below Obas Stoddard's residence almost to the V. & T. bridge is a valuable souvenir. The river is shown, including the dam, Virginia street bridge, Riverside Hotel and buildings adjacent to the river. In the background the bluffs north of town loom up, on which can be seen the University, School for Girls and other prominent buildings. The view is taken from a point near Congressman Newland's residence, and the whole makes a beautiful picture.

On Memorial Day he caught several snap shots of the procession on various streets and the pictures are simply immense. Charlie takes the pictures and develops them purely in the way of amusement and recreation. He says he likes the work and it affords him pleasure to give the pictures at souvenirs to intimate friends.

Governor Budd Will Not Interfere.

Governor Budd has filed a written decision declining to interfere in the case of Durrant, sentenced to death for the murder of Blanche Lamont; and Solter Worden, sentenced to hang June 4th, for train wrecking during the strike 3 years ago. In both cases the Governor says he has examined the evidence and himself questioned witnesses and can find no good reason why he should not allow the law to take its course. The longest decision is in the Durrant case, which he concludes by saying that finding no irregularity in the case and finding that the evidence justified the verdict of guilty, he cannot do otherwise than follow the Supreme Court and permit the verdict of the jury and judgments of the two courts to stand.

Mrs. Durrant broke the news to Theodore Durrant that Governor Budd would not interfere with the death sentence, and soon after the murderer was removed to the death chamber. Durrant was unaffected as usual.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys, will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whisky nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alternative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c. per bottle at Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

ANNUAL RECEPTION.

A Scene of Beauty and Enthusiasm and an Enjoyable Evening.

The annual reception given last night by the President and the Faculty of the State University drew a large and representative gathering to the Gymnasium and drill hall.

Viewed from the gallery the scene was very interesting and animated. Electric lights of many colors cast a soft radiance over the scene. Here and there groups of guests were engaged in conversation. Others were walking about greeting friends and schoolmates. Passing swiftly in and out among the guests were the members of the Class of '98 actively engaged in serving refreshments. The gay costumed and queenly bearing of the ladies added beauty and dignity to the scene.

The entire evening's entertainment was greatly enjoyed. Everybody seems anxious to congratulate both Faculty and students upon the completion of another highly successful school year.

Looking Healthy.

A letter received from Mason Valley this week states that the prospects of that section are very promising. The new copper smelter is being put up as fast as possible. The hills are full of prospectors and new strikes are being made every day. While it is not a good place for men with no means to go looking for work, our correspondent thinks it is the best place for a prospector on the face of the globe. So far a few gold properties have been developed to an extent to show that they are valuable. The copper prospects are better than anyone anticipated. The west side of the valley is almost a continuous copper mine for ten miles, and on the east side there are a number of promising claims located, among them being one of the largest copper ledges in the world. This ledge shows a width of nearly 200 feet, and the croppings can be followed for over 4,000 feet. Of course, the entire ledge does not produce rich ore, but it shows copper all through it, and some of the ore is very high grade. The town of Yerington is full of strangers, and they continue to come.—Lyon County Times.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her, and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this remedy for coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.

For Over Fifty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children when teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation and gives Tone and Energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. A few 2c. bottles. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup."

Official Visitation.

Andrea M. G. Grand Master of the I. O. O. F., of Nevada is spending a few days in Reno, as a member of the Honorary Board of Visitors of the State University. He is now making his official visit to the various Odd Fellows lodges in this part of the State, and will visit Nos. 14 and 19 here this week.

From here he goes to Carson and Virginia.

District Court.

The District Court was occupied yesterday in the trial of Webster vs. Thompson, before a Jury.

The case is one involving an attorney fee in a former case of Beck vs. Thompson. S. Summerfield is for plaintiff, and Alf Chartz is for the defendant.

Oscar Hilderbrandt was a departure for Wadsworth yesterday. He has started out on his regular trip through the eastern part of the State and will tune and repair all the pianos in the country if requested to do so.

BEAUTIFUL FLORENCE.

A City Praised For Its Good Manners and Harmonious Surroundings.

If I wished to teach an awkward child, youth or girl good manners by example, I should send him or her to Florence, says a writer to Truth (London). There may be ill-mannered persons there, but I never saw one. Poor people behave with the suave dignity which used in England to stamp the lady or gentleman. Most persons are brainy, but cleverness is not eager to shine. It is very subdued and more oily than corrosive. The charm of Florence steals on one like the wit of its clever inhabitants. The senses are soothed in all directions by harmonious manners and objects. Architects understood chiomismo not less than the great painters and sculptors. One never wearies of the streets and public buildings. Their aspects constantly and strongly vary, according to the course of the sun. Lights and shades at 10 in the forenoon are wholly different from what they will be at 4 in the afternoon. The Florentine women have interesting though not beautiful faces. But one has only to walk into the market to see country girls who would have done for models for Raphael's Virgin mothers. One is struck in the galleries with the nice judgment with which the pictures are hung. What more lofty in sentiment than the tomb of Lorenzo de' Medici? In fact, it is an attribute of Florentine architecture, palatial or domestic. The doors of private houses might pass in for portals. One feels them to be great facts in their way.

Looking of harmonious things reminds me of the Boboli gardens. Is there a spot in England, the land of stately and lovely seats, that at all approaches them? In situation and tranquil, generous loveliness I can only think of one—the Duke of Northumberland's terraced gardens at his place in Surrey. The Boboli Eden, where the Prince and Princess of Naples still court, is a gem. The advantage over the gardens of being under a revealing sky. The verdure of greenery, every feature, is well brought out. One sees the facile texture of statues and is followed by time. In so far as a human well-ordered design is concerned, one has it. The marbles are the climax. They are to the horticultural beauties as baillants to the lace and gem of a fine woman's dress.

It is not what it was in the days of the Medici. Still, it retains the old-world air with a long and illustrious history. The ladies' dresses are of a modern and when measured by the yard, to which Italian women are accustomed, they are generally very becoming. The English ladies, under applied to the Italian, are not so good. The place is not hot, but the sun is of the day in the afternoon. The ladies are not made of Italian lace.

Illustrative Example.

Conventions which it would be foolish not to observe may yet be criticized as conventional—that is, as things that have been agreed upon as proper rather than as things that are right or wrong in themselves. In these days it is the custom not to carry food to the mouth with one's knife, but the rule was not in force even in the White House 75 years ago.

A writer in the Washington Post says that an old lady used to tell with delight of an occasion on which she went with a woman to dine with Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Adams. The table was beautifully set in the fashion of the times, and at Mr. Adams' place lay a four-pronged fork. The other persons at table had merely the two-pronged forks then in use.

Mrs. Adams apologized for her husband's little eccentricity, saying that in his long sojourn in France he had acquired the habit of eating with his fork; a habit of which he had been unable to break himself.

"And, my dear," the old lady used to say, with a twinkle in her eye, "the elegant Mrs. Adams and the rest of us all."
